Description

Dominant buck urine is a way for mature bucks to claim their territory and will also attract other bucks to the area. When used during pre-rut and rut, these time-release scent beads will lure rival bucks in to challenge for dominance. It is typically most effective when just one or two ounces are put into a scrape.

Our simple-to-use, time-release scent beads increase your chances for a successful hunt and are friendly to the environment. They are made using a proprietary formula of biodegradable, natural polymers that are infused with a high quality scent. The wood fibers used give the beads a natural color and texture - providing camouflage in the field.

Our unique technology retains scent over an extended period of time - allowing scent to release for up to 30 days. Even heavy dew and rain will not wash the scent away.

Select your target area, tear open the packet and sprinkle the infused scent beads evenly across an area approximately 5'x5'.
